AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

For the Cure of

COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, WHOOPING-COUGH, CROUP, ASTHMA, AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS invaluable remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs has attained a celebrity from its remarkable cures, never equalled by any other medicine before. Other preparations have shown them [illegible] some effected notable cures [illegible] but none has ever so fully won the confidence of every community where it is known. After years of trial in every climate, the results have indisputably shown it to possess a mastery over this dangerous class of diseases, which could not fail to attract the attention of Physicians, Patients and the public at large.

See the statements not of obscure individuals and from far distant places, but of men who are known and respected throughout the country.

The widely celebrated Surgeon Doct VALENTINE MOTT of New York City says:

"I take pleasure in certifying the value and efficacy of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which I consider peculiarly adapted to cure diseases of the throat and lungs."

Dr PERKINS, the venerable President of the Vermont Medical College, one of the eminent physicians of this country, writes that he has [illegible] this preparation to be extensively used in the [illegible], where it has shown unmistakable evidence of its happy effects upon pulmonary diseases.

The Rev JNO D COCHRANE, a distinguished Clergyman of the English Church, writes to the Proprietor from Montreal that he has been cured of a severe asthmatic affection by Cherry Pectoral. His letter at full length may be found in our circular, to be had of the Agent, and is worthy the attention of asthmatic patients.

☞This article from the well known Druggist at [illegible], [illegible] one of the largest dealers in the [illegible] and this [illegible] from his own knowledge.

[illegible], March 10 1849.

Dear Sir: Immediately on receipt of your Cherry Pectoral, [illegible] who was [illegible], and I [illegible] had given up, [illegible] and I [illegible] your excellent medicine [illegible] may [illegible] my supplies on my return to meet [illegible] who was [illegible] backs from the [illegible].

Sewing by Machinery.

To Journeymen Tailors, Sempstresses, Employers, and all others interested in Sewing of any description.

SEVERAL attempts have been made to produce Machines for sewing, but they were of [illegible], the only object [illegible] used to little advantage [illegible].

SINGER & PHELPS' Lock Stitch Sewing Machine, patented by Isaac M Singer, and manufactured by Singer & Phelps, No 19 Harvard Place, Boston, Mass, is offered to the public as a perfect machine, and will be constructed and adapted to perform any kind of work, from the stitching of a fine shirt bosom to a [illegible] as well as the coarse [illegible] of leather. The needle is straight and works perpendicularly upon the table of the machine [illegible] room, and [illegible] to adjust the fabric in any way, and the stitch may be regulated to any length [illegible] breadth.

The stitch made by this machine is one which will not ravel or open, and the sewing can only be taken apart by cutting every stitch. From 600 to 1000 stitches [illegible] according to the fabric operated upon, may be taken a minute.

To bring this machine to perfection much labor and study have been expended upon it by the inventor, and the subscribers now offer the Belay [illegible] Sewing Machine, feeling confident that it will answer, upon trial, all the recommendations here given.

The profits arising from the use of one of these machines will be [illegible] the work of one or two needlewomen, from five to six dollars per day. The operation is not confined to the manufacture of clothing, [illegible] may be applied to every [illegible] and most kinds of textile.

The machine, with ordinary care, is warranted for one year without repair, and will last many years. It is simple in construction, and is easily regulated and managed, so that any person of ordinary ability may operate it.

The price of one of these machines, which is worked by a treadle, and capable of sewing any ordinary [illegible] fabric, is one hundred and twenty five dollars complete, with all appendages for operation.

These machines are so beautiful in their appearance, and they take up so little room, that they are an ornament to any [illegible] sewing apartment.

☞An Agent, to whom exclusive arrangements will be made, is wanted in every city and town in the United States.

All applications for Agencies, and all orders, enclosing money, for machines, which will be carefully packed to send to any part of the world, (as we have an arrangement to this end), will be promptly attended to by the manufacturers. All letters must be post paid and addressed to SINGER & PHELPS, 19 Harvard Place, Boston, Mass.

PATENTS.

American and Foreign Office.

AGENCY FOR BUSINESS WITH U. S. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON.

No. 23 State Street, Boston.

IN 1840 the subscriber was admitted by the Commissioner of Patents, in accordance with the 10th Sec. of the [illegible] of the U. S. Patent Office [illegible].

Having relinquished the Agency for the transmission of Models and adopted the more expeditious mode of sending them to the Patent Office, where by a recent rule they may be procured in six weeks earlier, he continues to forward them free of expense—to prepare Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and Drawings for Patents, and to render advice on legal and scientific matters respecting the same. Patents secured in Europe at [illegible].

By application at this office, the inventor saves the time and expense of a journey to Washington and delay there, as well as all personal trouble in obtaining their patents. The advantage of careful [illegible] explaining [illegible] inventions and [illegible] in respect to the [illegible], [illegible] of fifteen years' practice [illegible] collection of [illegible] different countries [illegible] on the Patent Laws and patents [illegible] together with [illegible] this office has been established [illegible] accounts have been kept of over [illegible] Washington enable the subscriber to afford to inventors desirous of procuring [illegible] assistance and information which others [illegible] difficult of attainment.

R H EDDY Solicitor of Patents.

WASHINGTON, JULY 21, 1849.—During the time I occupied the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. EDDY, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office as Solicitor for procuring Patents. There were few, if any, persons acting in that capacity who had so much business before the Patent Office, and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

SECURED AGAINST GUNPOWDER

Warranted not to Injure Books or Papers by Dampness.

THESE are the only Safes (WILDER'S PATENT) that have in every instance preserved their contents when exposed to large fires, like the burning of the Tribune printing office in New York city, and many others too numerous to mention.

The above Safes are manufactured and for sale by JOHN E WILDER, Boston, and for sale in Bangor at the manufacturers prices by

FISKE & DALE.

☞The following letter from the Superintendent of the Maine Telegraph Company is another proof of the superiority of JOHN E. WILDER'S Safe over all others:—

BANGOR, Oct 24, 1850.

John E. Wilder, Esq.—

Dear Sir—The Safe I purchased of you was exposed to a great degree of heat at the burning of the Telegraph Office in this city. It was in the fire six hours; the books and papers were uninjured, and the damage to the Safe very slight, although it fell from the second story to the basement of the building. The little repairs necessary to the Safe have been made, and we shall not need to return it. It is as good as new.

Respectfully yours, JAS EDDY.

Littell's Living Age.

E. LITTELL & CO.,

Corner of Tremont and Bromfield Streets.

THIS work is conducted in the spirit of Littell's Museum of Foreign Literature (which was favorably received by the Public for twenty years), but as it is twice as large and appears so often, we not only give spirit and freshness to it by many things which were excluded by a month's delay, but while thus extending our scope and gathering a greater and more attractive variety, are able so to increase the solid and substantial part of our literary, historical and political harvest, as fully to satisfy the wants of the American reader.

The elaborate and stately Essays of the Edinburgh, Quarterly, and other Reviews, and Blackwood's noble criticisms on Poetry, his keen political Commentaries, highly wrought Tales, and vivid descriptions of rural and mountain Scenery, and the contributions to Literature, History and Common Life, by the sagacious Spectator, the sparkling Examiner, the judicious Athenaeum, the busy and industrious Literary Gazette, the sensible and comprehensive Britannia, the sober and respectable Christian Observer; these are intermixed with the Military and Naval reminiscences of the United Service, and with the best articles of the Dublin University, New Monthly, Fraser's, Tait's, Ainsworth's, Hood's, and Sporting Magazines, and of Chambers' admirable Journal. We do not consider it beneath our dignity to borrow wit and wisdom from Punch; and, when we think it good enough, make use of the thunder of The Times.

The steamship has brought Europe, Asia and Africa into our neighborhood; and will greatly multiply our connections, as Merchants, Travellers, and Politicians, with all parts of the world, so that much more than ever it now becomes every intelligent American to be informed of the condition and changes of foreign countries. And this not only because of their nearer connection with ourselves, but because the nations seem to be hastening, through a rapid process of change, to some new state of things, which the merely political prophet cannot compute or foresee.

Geographical Discoveries, the progress of Colonization (which is extending over the whole world), and Voyages and Travels, will be favorite matter for our selections; and, in general, we shall systematically and very fully acquaint our readers with the great department of Foreign affairs, without entirely neglecting our own.

While we aspire to make the Living Age desirable to all who wish to keep themselves informed of the rapid progress of the movement—to Statesmen, Divines, Lawyers, and Physicians—to men of business and men of leisure—it will be [illegible] equally attractive and useful to their Wives and Children. It is [illegible] every well informed family. We say indispensable, because in this day of cheap literature it is not possible to guard against the influx of what is bad in taste and vicious in morals, in any other way than by furnishing a sufficient supply of a healthy character. The mental and moral appetite must be gratified.

By "winnowing the wheat from the chaff," by providing abundantly for the imagination, and by a large collection of Biography, Voyages and Travels, History, and more solid matter, a work is produced well calculated for universal popularity and to raise the standard of public taste.

This excellent work is published every Saturday by E LITTELL & CO, Boston, who supply orders by mail from all parts of the country. Remit any sum to them and they will send the work to that amount. Each number makes a handsome pamphlet of 48 pages, double column octavo—Price 12½ cts—or by the year Six Dollars.

We add to our own recommendation what our readers will value infinitely more, a letter from the late Ex-President J. Q. Adams:—

WASHINGTON, 27th December, 1845.

Of all the Periodical Journals devoted to literature and science which abound in Europe and in this country, this has appeared to me to be the most useful. It contains indeed the exposition only of the current literature of the English language, but this by its immense extent and comprehension includes a portraiture of the human mind in the utmost expansion of the present age.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.—The Providence Rhode Island American says—"We think no candid person will fail to recognize a true [illegible] the following from the Boston Bee:

At the head and front of the Journals of New York we place, without reservation, the New York Tribune. This may perhaps be thought a strong assertion, but we sincerely think it a true one. The Tribune has [illegible] any [illegible] to which no one of the [illegible] who will not acknowledge [illegible] grounded [illegible] doubted by the great public [illegible]. It has [illegible] proved, for the most part, those [illegible] opinions to be correct. It has shown [illegible] remarkable judgment and sagacity, and [illegible] appear [illegible] cause in advance and slightly above the general [illegible].

Among the chief characteristics of the Tribune are judgment, reliability, power, honesty, candor and great common sense.

The editorials of the Tribune are marked by good sense, strength of position, transparency, good temper and a great deal of good logic. It is always read [illegible] of men of experience, of strong [illegible] one of [illegible] opponent [illegible] will admit. Its political columns are characterized by [illegible] and [illegible] weigh and [illegible] through the country than any other journal in America.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.—This powerful journal [illegible] upon [illegible] to [illegible] The Tribune [illegible] At the moment [illegible] found doing [illegible] blows [illegible] and [illegible] right.—Western [illegible]

NEW YORK TRIBUNE.—Although we differ from the [illegible] economy, we cannot [illegible] the [illegible] the Tribune—for while we [illegible] what of truth it inculcates will [illegible] in the minds of its readers [illegible] their [illegible].—Bro [illegible]

☞THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE has seven Editors and five [illegible] ends [illegible] many printers [illegible] in East Tennessee [illegible] It requires [illegible] to carry on a [illegible] in the City of New York [illegible] in the City of [illegible] one [illegible] manager [illegible] the [illegible] That's some consolation any how.—Register (Tenn.) Times.

THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE FOR 1851.—Upon the merits of The Tribune it is unnecessary to say a word, known as it is so long [illegible] the model newspaper of the world [illegible] and the reading public [illegible] of this country and [illegible] tone [illegible] the [illegible] and slows of which the [illegible].—Pittsburgh (Penn.) Gazette.

☞THE TRIBUNE appears in a new and beautiful dress and on a superior quality of paper. It is now the handsomest as well as the best in every other respect of the New York daily papers.—Young [illegible] Reporter.

☞THE TRIBUNE as at present conducted we regard as the best newspaper in the world. The London Times is a great paper, but we have many weekly journals in America as well conducted as this and some few that are better in every respect. Among these few The Tribune is pre-eminent. We have scissored [illegible] showing the immense amount of [illegible] form [illegible] with the intent [illegible] reader [illegible] of the number of which newspapers are manufactured. A present [illegible] general news [illegible] our friends [illegible] York paper. If they can afford but one, to take The Tribune.—Minnesota Register and Chronicle.

☞Barring its politics, which of course is not to our taste, The Tribune is one of the best newspapers published in this country. Its news is early and authentic, and its literary matter excellent.—Freeman's (Cooperstown N. Y.) Journal.

☞THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE appeared on Friday last in a new dress, and its marked prosperity is a just tribute to one of the most able journals in the world. The influence and position of Mr Greeley is well known [illegible], but C. A. Dana and Bayard Taylor add [illegible] to the value of The Tribune. Its reviews are written with signal ability, and its news department is furnished with the latest intelligence from every quarter of the globe. In the list of its correspondents are some of the ablest minds of the country, and the independence of its tone and position on the leading questions of reform, now agitating the public mind, draw around it a host of supporters.—Numerous changes are continually occurring in the political world around us, but we find now in The Tribune, still the same consistent friend of human liberty, the same ardent advocate of the protective policy, the same generous supporter of all social and political reforms, which it was at the commencement of its career. If our citizens will take a New York paper, we recommend "The Tribune" as one of the most valuable journals we meet.—Newark (N. J.) Mercury.

☞We are much obliged to The New York Tribune to an exchange. Having had several good tastes of it, we find it almost indispensable. It approximates the nearest to a universal Almanac [illegible] Foreign [illegible] Journal of [illegible] do not [illegible] of Ireland [illegible] the politics of the Tribune [illegible].—Bangor (Me.) Jeffersonian.

THE CUP OF COLD WATER.

BY T. S. ARTHUR.

Henry Green was a reformed man. He had been a most abandoned drunkard, and, in the years of his sad disorder had shamefully wronged and abused his family. But in a lucid moment he [illegible] with startling distinctness the precipice upon the very brink of which he was standing, and started back therefrom.

For his suffering wife and children the waste places began to grow green, and the desert blossomed as the rose. After a long, long night of weeping, the sun came forth and his smiles brought light and gladness to their spirits.—The husband and father was a man once more, with the heart of a man. He turned no longer away from them in cold neglect, or in brutal anger, but toward them in thoughtful affection.

How quickly is perceived a change for the better in everything appertaining to the household of a family, when the head of it abandons his sins and follies, and returns to his affection and duty. All this change was apparent in the family of Henry Green. They had suffered even to the deprivation of every comfort; but of these, one and another were restored, until every part of their humble dwelling seemed to smile again. Happy they were!

And yet the wife of a reformed man often felt the less sweet security. She understood too well that for her husband, temptation lurked at every point. How often did she await his return home, as evening approached, with trembling anxiety, and mark while yet afar off his steps to see if they were firmly taken.

It was early in the fall of the year when Henry Green took the pledge. Through the winter he had worked industriously, and as he could earn good wages, he had comforts to give them as just mentioned, very many comforts. He had not been much tempted of his old appetite during the cold weather, nor did he feel its active return at the opening of spring. But it was not until the heat of summer the slumbering desire awoke.

Active bodily labor produced free perspiration. Frequent thirst was the consequence, and whenever this was felt, the thoughts of the reformed man dwelt upon the pleasure a cool glass of punch or [illegible] would give. With an effort, and often with fear at his heart, would he thrust aside the alluring images drawn by his truant imagination. At first they would come and go in their turn, and there were times when he was tempted almost beyond his strength.

Green was a carpenter. Early in the spring a gentleman offered him a good contract for putting up two or three frame buildings, which he gladly accepted, and as the lot upon which his house stood was large, he erected a shop thereon.

More cheerfully and hopefully than ever did the reformed man now work. He saw clearer light ahead. He would ere long recover all he had lost, and even get beyond the point of prosperity from which he had fallen.

Time went on. Spring passed and the summer opened. July came with intensely hot weather. Already had Henry Green felt the craving of his awakened appetite, and it required strong efforts at self denial to refrain from indulgence.

About eleven o'clock one day—it was a hot day that July—Green's thoughts were dwelling, as how was too often the case, upon the refreshing glass once so keenly enjoyed. A little way from his shop, though not in view, was a tavern, the bar room of which memory was picturing to the eyes of his mind with tempting distinctness. He had been there often and three [illegible]—often drank there until thought had fled and he was lost. He saw in imagination the rows of alluring decanters with their many colored contents; he heard the cold ice as it rattled in the glass as he almost felt the cold beverage upon his lips. So absorbed did he at length become, that he paused in his work and leaned over his bench, his eyes half closed, like one in a dreamy reverie.

It was a moment upon which his future for good or for evil hung, trembling as on an even balance that a hair might turn.

For as long as five minutes did Henry Green stand leaning over his work bench, a picture of the neighboring bar room distinctly before his mind, while he was conscious of an intense thirst—that it seemed as if nothing but a glass of mixed and iced liquor could possibly assuage.

With a deep drawn breath he at length raised himself, the struggle that was going on in his mind more than half decided in favor of self indulgence.

'Papa!' spoke a low familiar voice by his side.

Green started and turned suddenly. A child not over four years old stood by him—a fair child with a countenance full of innocence and affection. She held a tin cup in both her little hands.

'Have a drink of cold water, papa?'

'Yes, dear,' replied the father, in a low voice that was unsteady from the rush of sudden emotion; and he caught the cup from the child's hands, and raising it to his lips drank it eagerly.

Instantly the picture of the bar room, with all its allurements fled from the mind of Green. He was a man again in the integrity of a firm purpose. His child had to him by the hand of good Providence, has saved him. The cup of cold water had fully assuaged the violence of his burning thirst, and he was no longer under temptation.

'Thank you, dear,' he murmured as he lifted his child in his arms, and kissed her tenderly.

'Shall I bring you another cool drink after awhile?' asked the little one, as she pressed her father's cheeks with both her hands.

'Did any one tell you to bring me a cup of water?' asked Mr. Green.

'No, [illegible] But I thought you would like a cool drink,' innocently replied the child.

'Yes, dear, bring me another drink in a little while.' Then kissing the little angel who had been the means of saving him when about to fall into temptation, he replaced her upon the ground, once more turned to his work, and as he bent his body in labor he mused thus.

'I did not think of the water when I felt that intense desire for a glass of liquor—it did not seem to be what I wanted. But the cooling draught sent me (by Heaven I will say) so opportunely has quenched the morbid appetite and I felt it no longer. Water, pure, health giving water, you are all I need to give me strength to my good resolutions. When the old desire comes again I will drown it in clear, cold water. I feel safer now.—There is a medicine for the inebriate's craving appetite and it is—WATER. [illegible]—THANK [illegible] FOR WATER.'

Yes, water is the medicine that cures [illegible] craving for strong drink. Let the reformed man keep this ever in his thoughts, and the moment he feels the old desire drown it as did Henry Green, in pure cold water. Let him do this, and he is safe. He should walk the best [illegible] of habit, and be quick to allay the [illegible], lest he be led all unawares into danger.

Festival of the Sons of Oxford.

The Sons of Oxford resident in Penobscot held a grand festival at the Bangor House on Tuesday evening March 4th in honor of the anniversary of the organization of the County, and for the purpose of enjoying a pleasant re-union in this county of their adoption and with friends representing the old homesteads and the school house under the hill.

The reception room was in one of the large halls and a right social time was enjoyed by the sons and their guests. The large and respectable delegation from Oxford headed by Col. Charles Andrews, member of Congress elect, was received with great cordiality and their company hailed with the highest pleasure.

After spending some time in social intercourse and mutual introductions and congratulations the company proceeded to the dining hall. The Hall was decorated with emblems of the olden time and mementoes of old Oxford. Two long tables were richly spread in the elegant style of the Bangor House. In the centre of each was a pedestal surmounted with large moose horns; the chairs of the President and Vice President were covered with skins of the Black Bear, and upon each plate was a folded bill of fare entitled "Oxford and Penobscot" and ornamented with the cut of a huge Bear, a squirrel, a rabbit, an owl and a pencil. This strange device brought out a general roar from all the Bears assembled.

After partaking of the varied and generous fare, the President, Elijah L. Hamlin, Esq., gave a hearty welcome to all present, which a huge paw and was ready for a regular hug. He proceeded to give a history of the settlement of Oxford County, mostly by grants for military services,—the character and habits of the early settlers and their peculiarities,—the numbers who had been born upon the soil and had sought their fortune in other portions of the country, and the character and reputation which they had sustained.

The address was very interesting and was in wrought with much humor and a great amount of genuine fun, which was received with great applause. He concluded with a sentiment in honor of Sir Ferdinando Georges, to whom the territory of Oxford was first granted, and who was the founder of Maine.

Samuel H. Blake, Esq., Vice President, was called upon by the President and responded in a happy manner. He said—

We have taken our seats to night, at this festive board to enjoy the good cheer so tastefully set before us, and to indulge for an hour in the recollection of our native county and its interesting reminiscences. We have dwelt here some of us many years, and yet this is the first re-union of the sons of Oxford upon any festive occasion. We are thinking more of home, more of the places of our birth, more of the associations of our youth. We have not wandered very far from the hearths where our infancy was cradled—not far enough to forget the endeared faces and cheerful fires was [illegible] then to blaze out upon—the world is no wide enough for that—but quite far enough to look back often with a feeling of sadness. We have wandered quite far enough off and climbed the hill of life quite high enough to see across the valley between the old hills of Oxford, looming up clear and distinct as when first in our [illegible] we gazed upon them. There they are, uplifted against the Western sky, familiar as of old. There too are the other scenes hallowed by our boyhood. There is the pond reposing in glassy stillness, as when we played upon its brink—there is the brook we angled in, we drag its [illegible] among the alders. There are the same old fields with the mossy stone wall—the old orchard and the old gateway. There is the old mansion, blessed are its inmates,—whose door was never bolted against the stranger,—and there within are—ah, they are not there—but there is the church, and there are the graves.

The county of our nativity is a rough and broken country. Its mountains are a wall to with [illegible] into the Spring and early Autumn, all blanketed up for the cold; treads close upon Summer. Storms and tempests play upon its hills and dales. The climate of Oxford is indeed rigorous and its soil hard. But it has wrought into being a population hardy and thrifty, perhaps more hardy and thrifty because of the rigor of the climate against which it has braced itself up, and of the necessity it has [illegible] up under of working it. It would have [illegible] The heart, too, of the population is as sound as its body is strong. For it has been early taught the way to the schoolroom and to the church. A race of men, strong only from nature, enduring and industrious from habit—at home hospitable, abroad enterprising—the sun does not shine upon a nobler race than were our sires, and the evening prayer is not said in the Saxon tongue with more devotion than inspired our mothers when they besought the blessings of Heaven upon their sons.

While living, then, we will hold in grateful remembrance the land of our nativity, and dying we will leave it our benediction.

May I pledge you gentlemen in a sentiment of filial regard, that seems to me appropriate to the occasion:

Our Mothers. Those yet spared to us we adore—the memory of those gone we venerate.

Israel Washburn Jr. Esq., of Orono, member of Congress elect from this District, one of the Vice Presidents, was called out by the President, and responded in a speech of great beauty and force, but to sketch which we have not space to-day. He concluded with this sentiment:

"Oxford and Penobscot. The counties of our nativity and adoption. Our attachment to the former is the surest guaranty of our fidelity to the latter."

The following song was then sung by the whole company:

Old Oxford.

Written for the Sons of Oxford in Bangor

Tune—The Feathers

There is a land of not o'fame—our border in the West—
Where lasses thrive—the handsomest the loveliest and best.
Oh, tell us of the Oxford girls, wherever we may stray;
'Twill give delight
To our dreams by night,
And to our thoughts by day.

This is the land where from the Bears, the Bears so bold and strong,
Who, [illegible] strong hills, will never yield to wrong—

There's many a land with its Oxford Bears and Oxford girls also gay,
Who give delight
To our dreams by night,
And to our thoughts by day.

This is the land where sacred names make [illegible] mingled;
Hebron and Bethel here they find and famed old Greece,
And [illegible] blessing for those names and Oxford girls gay.
Who give delight
To our dreams by night,
And to our thoughts by day.

This is the land should send no sons to California shores,
While Peru and Mexico yield up their jewel stores,
Bad luck to Californians when Oxford girls so gay
Do give delight
To our dreams by night,
And to our thoughts by day.

There is the land where Paris styles and Canton Skerts [illegible] known
As [illegible] other lands while they are all [illegible] own,
Then [illegible] good luck to Paris styles of Oxford girls so gay.
Who give delight
To our dreams by night,
And to our thoughts by day.

This is the land where kingdoms lie beneath the [illegible] and stars,
Denmark, Sweden old Norway and young [illegible] quiet homes
Success to those good kingdoms now and bless the girls so gay
Who give delight
To our dreams by night,
And to our thoughts by day.

This is the land where [illegible] though [illegible]
[illegible] the [illegible] you get and Waterford
[illegible] to Oxford [illegible] Oxford girls
Who give delight
To our dreams by night,
And to our thoughts by day.

This is the land where Johnny Bull may Oxford [illegible]
And [illegible] thought with [illegible] Cap [illegible] if he is to [illegible] incline,
And [illegible] Oxford girls as he goes on his way
Who give delight
To his dreams by night,
And to his thoughts by day.

[illegible] the land where Charbe lain shot Paugus with [illegible]
That [illegible] to yonder and we [illegible]
A blessing on old Chamberlain and the Oxford girls so gay
Who give delight
To our dreams by night,
And to our thoughts by day.

This good old land we'll ever love, the land that gave [illegible]
The land more [illegible] in our [illegible] than any land on [illegible]
Then [illegible] boast her [illegible] Bears and girls so gay
Who give delight
To our dreams by night,
And to our thoughts by day.

Letters from Hon. Hannibal Hamlin, U. S. Senator from Maine, Hon. Albion K. Parris, Hon. Daniel Goodenough, Hon. Judge Howard, Hon. R. K. Goodenow, and various other gentlemen, all worthy sons of Oxford, were read by the President and by H. G. O. Morrison, Wm. Tessenden, Esq., Gen. S. F. Hersey, and J. R. Rawson, Esq., members of the Committee. These letters gave much interest to the company and contained many touching incidents and happy allusions to the men of the olden time and bore eloquent testimony to the worthiness of Oxford to be remembered with lively interest by all her sons.

Col. Charles Andrews, one of the delegates from Oxford to the sons in Penobscot, was called upon and was received with rounds of applause. He spoke of the interest which those at home in maintaining the integrity of the old dear [illegible] for all who had gone abroad—of the progress of the country, awakened [illegible] was by the [illegible] population and refinement and in all the energies of active life. He concluded with a sentiment.

OUR FATHER LAND!

WRITTEN FOR THE SONS OF OXFORD IN BANGOR

Air—Auld Lang Syne.

Can we forget our father land,
Where tower the stately pine
Beneath whose shade the red man roved
In auld lang syne?

Chorus. Can we forget its rock ribbed hills—
Of strength the earthly [illegible]— [rills,
The mountain streams—the gushing
Of auld lang syne?

Can we forget its valleys green,
The wealth of corn and kine
That, from the hill tops, we have seen,
In auld lang syne?

Can we forget the glassy lake,
Where oft we dropped the line
The spring that used our thirst to slake
In auld lang syne?

Can we forget the wild green wood
Unpierced by summer's shine,
Where we roved in merry mood,
In auld lang syne?

And sought the bear and flying deer,
From morning until dine
Nor thought of danger or of fear
In auld lang syne?

Can we forget those sturdy sires
With hearts of flint design
Whose souls glowed bright with Freedom's fires
In auld lang syne?

Can we forget those Saturdays
When oft they used to join
And talk about their warlike ways,
In auld lang syne?

Can we forget how they'd run on—
Inspired with mirth and wine—
About Prentices and Washington
In auld lang syne?

Can we forget how they fought o'er
Their battle with Burgoyne
And beat their red coat foes once more,
In auld lang syne?

Can we forget those matrons wise
Who [illegible] no jewels fine,
Save the bright diamonds of their eyes,
In auld lang syne?

Can we forget their daughters fair
For whom our hearts did pine,
In honest faith they angels were
In auld lang syne?

Can we forget the school house lone—
Old Learning's modest shrine—
Where ruled the wit and dozed the drone,
In auld lang syne?

Can we forget the joyous plays
That youthful hearts intwine,
Brought by the welcome holidays
Of auld lang syne?

Can we forget the ancient church,
Where priest with voice divine
Doled horrors from his lofty perch,
In auld lang syne?

Can we forget the grave yard sad,
Where former friends recline
Who made our drooping spirits glad,
In auld lang syne?

Oh no! we never can forget
That land of storm and shine,
But treasure in our hearts the debt
Of auld lang syne

Dear father land, our filial hearts
Still back to thee incline,
And oft the tear unbidden starts
For auld lang syne!

Addresses were made by —— Marble, Esq., Treasurer of Oxford county, by —— Kimball, Esq., Clerk of the Courts, by —— Clark, Esq., Postmaster of Paris, and by Dr. Turner.

The representatives of the Press were alluded to and a call made upon John S. Sayward of the Whig and Courier, was briefly responded to and the following sentiment offered:

The incomers of Bangor. May every man bring with him the intelligence, patriotism, industry and moral worth of their fathers, and every woman bring hither the gentleness, devotion, faith and humility of the mothers of the places of their nativity, and here by a union of all these virtues adorn human life and reflect back worthy honors upon kindred and home.

Joseph Bartlett, Esq., of the Jeffersonian, was called upon and in a few neat remarks offered this sentiment:

The Bears. Though the quadrupeds are fast disappearing before the onward progress of civilization, may the indomitable and fun loving biped race, such as old Oxford sires, be perpetuated and increased and multiplied.

Samuel P. Dinsmore, Esq., of the Mercury, responded to the call made upon him in a facetious and taking speech, in which he alluded to the success of the Bears of Oxford wherever they located themselves.

John Appleton, Esq., a guest, was called on and interested the company much in an eloquent and well timed speech, and concluded with offering a sentiment.

John E. Godfrey, Esq., a guest, upon being called upon recited a humorous and pungent poem, which brought down the house in great applause.

Israel Washburn, Jr., Esq., read the following poem in fine style:

RESPECTFULLY DEDICATED TO THE

Oxford Bears

BY REV. [illegible] LEONARD

Old Oxford! [illegible] we've met
[illegible] with [illegible]
[illegible] yet
[illegible] our feet have trod new lines
[illegible]
[illegible] Oxford boasts [illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible] crowded streets
[illegible]
[illegible] and woods and growling Bruins.

[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible] words
[illegible]
[illegible]
Of weak nobility among the Bears.

[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
The snows lie deep on plain and hill
[illegible] warm retreats [illegible]
And all [illegible]
The snows say Now let no Bear suck his paws.

We were but cubs when far from haunts
[illegible]
We to [illegible] to seek [illegible] wants
[illegible] we brought from them,
The many moons [illegible]
[illegible] hills
[illegible]
We saw on the fair [illegible]
[illegible] Winter's past
We [illegible] our love [illegible] loud long and fast.

Mr. Washburn also recited a poem into which he wove many pleasant local allusions and fragments of Oxford stories, and which excited much mirth.

Samuel F. Brown, Esq., one of the venerable sons, was called upon, but declined making a speech, yet afforded great pleasure by singing the following song:—

New England

TUNE—Abram Newland or Daddy Arpin [illegible]

When our fathers of yore, for love or right of this lands,
And the [illegible] were first heard to sing land,
From the [illegible] so hampered, on deck they all scampered
To take the first peep at New England
[illegible] rough rugged shores [illegible] New England
The wild woods and rocks of New England
So [illegible] at the view they directly bow [illegible] to
And [illegible] ashore in New England

Then they tore up the soil with abundance of toil
[illegible] they soon made a beautiful green land
And they planted a tree which they called Liberty
In the generous soil of New England
It flourished and grew in New England,
Its branches spread over New England
And under its shadow our fathers have had O!
The richest of joys in New England

But a Mr. John Bull who would lord it in full
Came o'er the [illegible] from Old England
And swore that this tree no longer should be Found growing so high in New England;
That it never belonged to New England
Though already bloomed in New England
So we soon came to blows, with a high bloody nose
He was glad to pack off from New England

Then came Monsieur Frank all [illegible] and crank
Who thought the entire world he should [illegible] hand
From rabble and robbery to kick up a bobbery
With the peaceable folks of New England,
[illegible] wild cats in New England
[illegible] fair tree of New England
For our [illegible] navy, he [illegible]
And [illegible] away from New England

But leave these old times and haste with our rhymes
To scenes which are rife in this free land
Where electrical power and steam [illegible]
Will give a whole view of New England;
Of all that is now in New England
From the head and the hand in New England
And O! what surprise to our hearts and our eyes
Is the halo of Fame o'er New England.

But let us not pother nor disturb one another,
For the band that encircles our whole land
Let our social commu[illegible] to make stronger the Union
Lest [illegible] hold depart from New England;
From all that is good in New England;
From all that is great in New England
Yes—law shall be law in spite of such law
As cannot be law in New England

He offered the following sentiment—

Streaked Mountain—In its broad, y extended and substantial base it resembles the firm, staid and immovable moral principles of those worthy men who first cleared, settled and cultivated the wilderness around it, and in its towering summit and splendid prospect those liberal elevated and patriotic virtues which characterized their lives—When these virtues shall cease to be the attributes of their descendants then will the old Mountain wither in the sun and tremble in the storm and fall and crumble into dust.

The following poem was read:

Old Oxford

Written for the Sons of Oxford in Bangor

BY A DAUGHTER OF OXFORD

A health to Old Oxford! success to her sons
[illegible] mountains [illegible]
[illegible] Androscoggin [illegible] ripples on,
And pure as the breezes that fan it.

O [illegible] could we wish for a lovelier land!
O how could we wish for a dearer!
For [illegible] mountains more grand,
For lakes that are bluer and clearer

For the fields of the swift Androscoggin are broad
And rich the reward to the farmer;
And if Saco's sweet meads [illegible] we may be proud,
As they smile in the light of the summer;

For Kearsarge and Pequawket all loftily stand
Their names are enrolled in our story;
And Umbagog [illegible] in the hollowed ground,
[illegible] vested by nature with glory.
A health to Old Oxford &c

Right dear unto us are the homes of our youth!
Right dear are the scenes of our childhood!
The hearth where we learned the first lessons of truth!
The book where we played in our wildwood,
[illegible]
And dear is the house where we first went to school;
Dear the halls of old Fryeburg and Hebron;
Where [illegible] or [illegible] rule,
[illegible] since have been free from

And ever we cherish sweet mem'ries of home,
Will the teachings of sires and mothers;
Our hearts are in Oxford wherever we roam;
And her sons unto us are as brothers
Then a health to Old Oxford &c.

Many other speeches were made and wit, sentiment and merriment were kept up for several hours when the company finally separated in high glee having a great fund of matter undisposed of.

We have only been able to collect the following of the numerous sentiments offered on the occasion:—

By the President E. L. Hamlin, Esq.—

Sir Ferdinando Georges, the first Lord proprietor of the territory of Oxford county and the founder of the State of Maine.

By Charles O. Record,

Ladies of Oxford—Although not assembled with us this evening our thoughts still recur to them as the star of our devotion.

By a Lady:

The Mothers and Sisters of Oxford—Though not permitted to join in the festival may their clean hearths and delightful tables their frugal industrious and temperate habits not be forgotten by the favored Sons.

By Dr. Job Holmes of Calais

Oxford County—May her grandsons be an improvement upon her sons.

By Prof. John Locke of Medical College Cincinnati

The Constitution and the Union—Exclusion to him who would violate the one or sever the other.

By Dr. J. B. Bradley of Fryeburg

The emigrants from Old Oxford—May their energy, enterprise and love of adventure be equalled by their integrity, intelligence and worth.

By J. M. Adams, Esq., of Portland

The sons of good Old Oxford—May they be like the hills of their native County, always aiming up, ward and like her rivers ever onward.

By Hon. [illegible] Goodenow of Alfred

The sons of Oxford—May their fraternal regards be broad as the Constitution and limits of our common country, and durable as their own native hills.

By Peter C. Virgin, Esq. of Rumford

The sons of Oxford—Wherever found they are noted for love of liberty, keen sense of justice, enterprise and gumption, and never will.

By Hon. H. Hamlin—

Old Oxford and her sons—Her sons abroad, if they shall always emulate the virtues of her sons at home there is little fear that they will ever discredit either their ancestry or native county.

Gen. Levi Hubbard—The first State Senator, the first Captain, the first Colonel, the first Major General and the first Representative to Congress from Oxford county—the remembrance of his sterling qualities will not soon be forgotten by the sons of Oxford.

The Old Paris Artillery Company—When they next are commanded to "horse sword" may we all be there to see the business done.

The Iron Horse of the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Rail Road Company—About to enter for the first time that marvelous country the Coos, the upper Coos and the Coos above the upper Coos—who will assume again at his capture and flight to parts unknown when he shall come to snort within the hearing of grave of some Hampshire horse jockey?

The City of Bangor—The Queen City of the East—the only rivalship between her native and her adopted sons is who shall most promote her honor and her best interests.

The County of Penobscot—She gives a hearty welcome to all like emigrants from whatever point of the compass they may come.

The Union—Our fathers perilled their lives to form it: their sons will do no less to defend it.

☞ The editor of the Jeffersonian seems to feel greatly elated at the publication of the Frankfort letter written probably as he suggestion in which the writer saw only a jocose matter in what appeared to others to be quite too low for a joke in the respectable company in which it was uttered.

The remarks of the editor of the Jefferson warrant us in saying that from the language employed as reported to us and from the opinion of at least five persons who were present at the Hampden Levee the remarks of the editor of the Jeffersonian on that occasion were not fit to be made but should be severely reprehended by every man of correct taste and good morals and thus we say deliberately and after having read the Frankfort letter.

If it were not a defilement to our columns and rendering our paper unfit to be read in the family circle we would publish the language employed on the occasion, in what the Frankfort gentleman deemed so jocose and appropriate. Dare the Jefferson[ian] publish the joke?

☞ The little girl who has sent us a story of the Indian Wars may rest assured that we have not forgotten her. The story is very well told and is really very creditable for one so young. The incidents of the story are rather too general to be received into the body of the current literature of our country written by mature minds. She must not be discouraged at not seeing her pleasant composition in our columns. The reading of it afforded us pleasure and we think we discover elements in the mind of the writer which will, by a little farther practice make most of her compositions fit to grace the columns of any paper.

The ship Shannon which arrived at New York on Sunday lost her first officer and 40 passengers by sickness and had 28 on the sick list when she arrived. The S. Fish had a very boisterous passage, lost cutwater &c. She has not a single whole sail aboard.

☞ We give a large portion of our space to day to a report of the Festival of the Sons of Oxford held in this city on Thursday evening. This festival was quite a new feature in Maine, and therefore deemed the more worthy of special notice. Those who were not present cannot easily imagine how much we have been compelled to cut the matter short.

Citizens' Caucus.

At the Citizens Caucus held at Market Hall, last evening Elijah L. Hamlin, Esq. was nominated a candidate for Mayor. The whole number of votes thrown was 904, and Mr Hamlin received 6[illegible].

Illness of Senator Benton—Washington Items.

NEW YORK, March 4

Senator Benton's disease is small pox. He is said to be dangerously ill.

Horace Greely telegraphed as follows to the Tribune, under date of Washington, 1 P M. Congress has just adjourned. All the Appropriation bills were passed. The Light House, Post Route, Warrant Assignment, and River and Harbor bills, were each defeated. The Naval bill affords no relief to the Collins line of steamers.

Mr Clay fought gallantly for them but was defeated by 24 to 21. Something was done for the California mails but little. The California Dry Dock was cut down but not repudiated. All the new lines of steamships were voted down, but all the appropriation bills were carried through handsomely.

A SLAVER. A letter from Mayaguez, P. R., Feb 21st says—"A brig from the coast of Africa, with 212 miserable beings, huddled together like so many swine in her hold, touched here on the 7th instant, and the same evening sailed for the North coast of Cuba, where she no doubt disembarked her cargo of humanity consigned to bondage [illegible]

From Mexico

NEW YORK, March 4,

The Mobile Tribune has details of the news from Mexico. The posts for the telegraph wires between Vera Cruz and the capital are all up. Robberies on the boundary line continue frequent. Tampico is suffering greatly from the want of provisions. The cholera has again appeared at Sonora, thirty persons fell victims.

A conductor left the city of Mexico for Vera Cruz on the 3d with more than a million dollars in specie. The Monitor predicts that the country under Arista's administration will rise to the rank of the most distinguished nations of the earth.

The revolution in Guanajuato have been entirely put down.

CONSUMPTION CURED

ROGERS' SYRUP OF LIVERWORT TAR AND

CANCHALAGUA;

FOR THE COMPLETE CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Asthma, Bronchitis, spitting of Blood, and all other Lung Complaints tending to CONSUMPTION.

NO OPIUM.

This syrup contains no Opium, Calomel or any mineral whatever but is composed entirely of those Roots, Herbs and vegetable substances which have a specific influence on the Lungs and their connected organs. Its immediate effects to allay irritation, and gently remove the phlegm and other morbid secretions from the Throat and Air Passages, thus relieving the Cough by subduing the inflammation and other causes which give rise to it. It also stimulates and imparts a healthy tone to the Lungs themselves, the system becomes [illegible] enough to remove from the blood those impurities and diseased particles which if retained do so much mischief to the system and lay the foundation for incurable CONSUMPTION. It also excites a decided action upon the skin and assists nature in expelling through the [illegible] much of that morbid matter which would otherwise be thrown back upon the Lungs, thus relieving them of a part of their work, and rendering the system pure and healthy. When tubercles are forming it checks their development and further progress, or if ulceration has taken place it assists the Lungs in throwing off the corrupted matter, soothes the irritation, heals the ulcerated cavities and restores them again to healthy action. This Med[icine] is therefore is not a palliative merely which only relieves for the time being, but is a thorough curative and strikes at the very root of the disease, and by removing it removes at once all its remote and attendant consequences. This is its distinguishing characteristic—a property possessed, in equal power by no other medicine of the known before the public.

CIRCULARS, &c.

As no ordinary sized advertisement can fully explain the nature and merits of this article, the Proprietors have published a new Circular, giving the history of this Medicine, the description, nature &c of its principal ingredients, the effect they are designed to have upon the Lungs and Liver, and a copious reference to the persons who have been cured by it, giving their names and residence even to the street and the number.—Those who are troubled with a Cough or whose Lungs are in the least affected are earnestly desired to call upon the Agents named below and procure one of these Pamphlets. It can be had gratis and will well repay a perusal. The Hints on Health and About taking Cold may be worth to yourself and family in the shape of Doctor's Bills saved, besides being the means of prolonging many a valuable life.

Hundreds of Dollars,

WARRANTY.

Such is our confidence in its virtues that we are willing to warrant this Medicine in every case of recent Cold (when used according to the Directions on page 7th of the pamphlet, inside the wrapper of each bottle) and where the person is not satisfied that he is deriving benefit from it, by returning the bottle within twenty four hours time.

THE MONEY

will be returned. ☞ See page 36 of the pamphlet inside the wrapper of each bottle.

Be sure to ask for Dr. A. Roger's Syrup of LIVERWORT TAR and CANCHALAGUA, and let no other be palmed on to you.

CITY OF BANGOR.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given to the inhabitants of the City of Bangor, qualified to vote for Representatives, that warrants have been issued by the Mayor and Aldermen, requiring Henry B. Farnham, a Constable of said city, to notify the said inhabitants to assemble at the following places in each of the wards in the city, on MONDAY, the 10th day of March inst at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to act on the following articles, to wit:

1. To choose a Warden for each of said Wards.
2. To choose a Ward Clerk for each of said Wards.
3. To give their votes for a Mayor of said city, and to choose one Alderman and three Common Councilmen for each of said wards.

Ward One will meet at the School house on York street in said ward.

Ward Two will meet at the City Hall in said ward.

Ward Three will meet at the school house on Hudson street, in said ward.

Ward Four will meet at the school house on the corner of Court and Hammond streets, in said ward.

Ward Five will meet at the school house on Pine street, in said ward.

Ward Six will meet at the westerly school house on Cumberland street, in said ward.

Ward Seven will meet at the brick school house near the house of H B. Wetherbee, in said ward.

Notice is also given that the Board of Aldermen will be in session at their room in the City Hall, on the 8th day of March inst, from 9 o'clock A. M. to 1 o'clock P. M., and from 2 to 5 o'clock P. M., to correct the list of said voters.

Notice is likewise given that a quorum of the Board of Aldermen will be in session at their room in the City Hall, from 9 o'clock A. M. to 1 o'clock P. M. on the day of election, for the purpose of granting certificates to such legal voters as are not registered upon the ward lists.

Warrants calling said meetings are posted up at the several places of meeting by the City Marshal.

Per order,
GEO W. SNOW, City Clerk.
Bangor, March 1, 1851. tm

City of Bangor.

In Board of Aldermen, February 17, 1851.

ORDERED, That the Mayor be, and is hereby authorized to cause so much of the Revised Statutes as regards the making and vending LOTTERY TICKETS in this State, to be published in all the city papers.

Passed and sent down for concurrence.
WILLIAM H. MILLS, Mayor.

In Common Council, Feb 17, 1851.—Passed in concurrence. EBENEZER TRASK, Pres't.

LOTTERIES.

If any person shall make, or aid in making, any lottery, or shall hereafter advertise, or make public, any scheme for any lottery, or shall advertise or offer for sale any ticket or part of a ticket in any lottery, or shall sell or give away, negotiate or dispose of, or shall purchase or receive the same, or shall have in his possession any ticket or paper purporting to be the number of any ticket, or part of a ticket of any lottery, with intent to sell or dispose of the same, on his own account, or as agent for another, he shall be punished by a fine, not less than one hundred dollars, and not exceeding one thousand dollars; one half of which fine shall be for the use of the person, who shall inform and prosecute for the same, and the other half to the use of the state.—Rev. Stat. chap. 165, § 4.

Preparation for Removal!

J. C. J. BROCKMULLER.

Contents of Two Green Houses FOR SALE.

THE good people of Bangor are informed that it is the intention of the subscriber to remove from the city next October, and in the mean time, he will dispose of every plant, root and seed in his Green House on Palm Street, and also his Green House on Kenduskeag avenue, in the garden of Mr. Norris, at uncommonly low prices.

He is now ready to supply, daily, beautiful Boquets of cut Flowers. The famous, hardy and much admired Lorraine Rose, and Queen of the Prairie, in pots, together with many others, are just now coming into bloom, and will be sold low, and are all warranted on their own root.

As the season advances every plant, shrub, vine and tree will be sold at such prices as will insure ready sale.

Will the good people please to call and furnish themselves with flowers and rare plants?

That Yankee Eye-Water

GIVES relief in all cases. See the following certificate from a Bangor man. For sale by the dozen or single bottle, by WM. MANN.

A CERTIFICATE.

Bangor, July 3, 1850.

This may certify that about three week since my eyes were very much inflamed; one was nearly blind, and having Mann's Yankee Eye Water recommended to me, I used about one fifth of a bottle, in about a dozen applications, and it perfectly cured them, and I would recommend a trial of it to all afflicted with sore, weak, or inflamed eyes.

P. WALL,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

Foreign and Domestic Goods,
GENT'S FURNISHING GOODS and FANCY ARTICLES,
AND EVERY DESCRIPTION OF
Ready-Made Clothing,
NO. 14 WEST MARKET SQUARE,

HAS the pleasure of announcing that he has received a very large and complete assortment of new, seasonable and fashionable goods, selected from the best sources, which will be sold lower than can elsewhere be purchased in the State. The best of German, French, English and American Broadcloths, Doeskins, Cassimeres and Overcoatings of every desirable style, texture and color—VESTINGS of the richest patterns [illegible] Trimmings in endless variety. Particular attention has been given to obtain goods suited to this market, embracing the richest and best as well as those of medium quality, and in such variety and abundance that all may be fully suited.

READY-MADE CLOTHING!

It is getting now to be well understood that those who would obtain the best fitting and most comfortable garments should seek them at large establishments, where the best goods are found and the highest artistic skill employed in their fabrication. In this establishment the division of labor gives to every garment the highest finish at the lowest possible cost, which is a decided advantage to the public, enabling them to dress elegantly with the least increase of expense. In this large and extensive stock may be found new styles of Garments for the present and coming season, which for neatness of style, richness of material and extent in variety is pronounced by competent judges to be far superior to anything ever offered.
